

Nancy Coriaty is Deputy Town Librarian of Fairfield Public Library. Nancy Coriaty has been a librarian for twenty-four years and has worked in libraries in Connecticut, Massachusetts, and Florida. She received her Master of Library Science from Simmons College, Boston, Massachusetts. Nancy was a finalist in the category, Programming for Youth, STORIES FOR YOU, Hometown USA Video Festival. Nancy was also a presenter at the American Library Association Conference, Public Library Association, and Canadian Library Association for a program titled "Mildly Delirious Libraries: Recreating your library from top to bottom." With a building renovation in the horizon for Fairfield Woods Branch Library, Nancy and the Library Director have been researching LEED library sites and plan on visiting library buildings that have LEED certification. Nancy is an avid home gardener who loves to take her fresh vegetables and create delicious things to eat.

Mary Coe is the head of the Reference Department of the Fairfield Woods Branch Library, and has been an employee of the Fairfield Public Library system for the past fifteen years. She is involved in the planning and implementation of many of the programs at the Library, including the popular Green Film Festival and "A Sustainable Connecticut and You" with Bill Duesing, Executive Director of CT NOFA (Northeast Organic Farmers Association). She also been a co-chair of the annual "One Book, One Town" event, which is a month-long series of programs that bring together the residents of Fairfield to celebrate a chosen work of fiction or non-fiction. Mary holds a Bachelor of Arts Degree from Fairfield University, and a Masters of Information and Library Science from Pratt Institute in New York City.